

Revision Timetable

First plan in your regular commitments (clubs, teams etc.) and ensure you leave some time for fun activities and relaxing. Then plan in your dedicated homework time and any support sessions. You can break the after school boxes up into smaller time sections. Look at how many sessions you have left for revision. Check how many units you need to revise and distribute them accordingly among the space you have. Pace your work over the time available. By the last week you should be just reviewing the revision materials you have made.
